Words of Washington Apply to Modern Circumstances

GEORGE WASHINGTON (1732-1799): Monday we observe the birthday anniversary of George Washington and I was glad to run across an article in War Cry, the Salvation Army periodical entitled "What Washington Said About..."

"Today the words of our first President remain as pertinent to modern circumstances as when they were first spoken," the article says. Let us see for ourselves:

What did George Washington say about criticism? He said: "Why should I expect to be exempt from censure, the unfailing lot of an elevated station? Merit and talents, with which I can have no pretensions of rivalry, have ever been subject to it. My heart tells me that it has been my unremitted aim to do the best that circumstances would permit, yet I may have been very often mistaken in my judgment of the means, and may in many instances deserve the imputation of error."

About Christianity? "While all men in our territories are protected in worshipping the Deity according to the dictates of their consciences, it is rationally to be expected from them, in return, that they will all be emulous of evincing the sanctity of their professions, by the innocence of their lives, and the beneficence of their action; for no man who is a profligate in his morals or a bad member of the civil community, can possibly be a true Christian, or a credit to his own religious society."

About conscience? "Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire called conscience."

About law? "The basis of our political system is the right of the people to make and to alter their constitutions of government. But the con-

SALINE COUNTY OIL REPORT:

Drilling Operations In Saline County

By BOB SKEELS

One half mile southeast of Raleigh, the Slagter Producing company is running a whipstock at 2410 in an attempt to drill past lost tools at 2965 after unsuccessfully setting three whipstocks at that depth on the No. 1 L. B. Hale, NE SW NE, 22-8-66, an interesting and very expensive wildcat.

In the area four miles north of Raleigh, where last week, it was believed they had a big 200 barrel a day well, Boling-Levise-Yabrove and Calvert Drilling are cleaning out after running a squeeze job on their No. A-1 Ben Davis, NW NW SE, 35-7-66. The Cypress 2539-59, swabbed only three barrels of oil and 19 barrels of water per hour after fracturing. They have plugged back to 2965 and have run a squeeze job in an attempt to shut off the water.

Drilling On No. Two Well
Just south of this well, one mile, the George and Wrather Oil company of Mt. Carmel, is drilling today at 2798 on its No. 2 well on the Frank Parker farm in the NE SE NW, 2-8-66.

Also in this immediate area, the same operators have applied for a permit to drill another test on the B. F. Lemons farm, the No. 4.

In Sec. 7-8-7e, just southwest of Eldorado, Ashland Oil and Refining has run casing at 2909 to test good Aux Vases sandy lime 2909-13 on its No. 2 Victor Suttner, NE SE SE, 7-8-7e. A two hour drill stem test, gassed in 30 minutes and recovered 180 feet of clean oil, 60 feet of oil cut mud.

Carter Oil's No. 2 Velma Turner is cleaning out and testing after fracturing through perforations opposite the Hardinsburg sand 2349-57. It swabbed about 5 barrels of oil and 5 barrels of water in 12 hours natural before fracturing.

Carter's No. 2 James E. Horn, in the SW NE SW, 8-8-7e, is still a location awaiting rotary tools to drill an Aux Vases test.

The Illinois Mid Continent Oil company, Mt. Carmel, is drilling today below 2690 on its No. 1 Leslie Stinson, NW NE NW, 17-8-7e, with the Deo Watson rotary tools.

Successful Drill Stem Test
Three miles east of Eldorado, near the county line, G. L. Reasor has set casing on his No. 2 James H. Porter in NE NW SE, 23-8-7e, after running a successful drill stem test on the Aux Vases lime 2895-2901, which recovered 330 feet of clean oil, gassed in 10 minutes and 120 feet of slightly mud cut oil. Bottom hole pressure 800 pounds per square inch.

His No. 3 test on the Porter lease, is drilling below 1100 feet today with G. B. Mitchell's tools of Carmi. Bill Harris is the geologist.

The No. 1 J. R. Davenport, NE NE NW, 24-8-7e, in the same area, owned by Carter Oil, offsetting the Miami Operating William J. Crawford completed a few weeks ago, is still a location to be drilled in the near future.

W. C. McBride got a disappointing duster this week on the Clarence Collier farm in the NW SE SE, 23-8-7e, after drilling through no saturation in the Aux Vases lime. Total depth was 3025 and the hole has been abandoned.

Retired Engineer Enters Purdue to Study Raising Chickens

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Bill Meiring, 70, a retired engineering consultant, has enrolled at Purdue University to learn how to raise chickens.

He said after his graduation he plans to buy a chicken farm near Lafayette because farming is "10 times better than loafing around in Florida like some of my friends are doing."

Sudden withdrawal of all support prices when unemployment is growing might cause a "downward spiral," he added.

As long as there are food surpluses in government hands, he said, school lunch programs and food stamp plans should be considered.

"I hope President Eisenhower is given carte blanche to use at least a billion dollars of our surpluses to relieve suffering wherever and whenever he deems it wise to do so," he said.

Wallace Urges Flexible Price Support System

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace urged flexible farm price supports today and said continuing corn props at 90 per cent of parity could build "utterly fantastic" surpluses.

Wallace, former Des Moines farm editor who became secretary of agriculture in 1933, spoke at the 16th National Farm Institute on "price supports, tariffs and foreign trade."

He said he always has favored holding "rather large supplies" of farm crop surpluses for protection in case of bad weather, war or other disaster.

He favored the ever-normal granary and proposed building an international ever-normal granary or food and fiber reserve, with cotton and wheat reserves going to those who can't buy.

He favored the ever-normal granary program can be sustained only by a flexible support price system," he said. "This is especially true of corn."

"With good weather and no new war, a 90 per cent corn loan will soon build up utterly fantastic supplies and endanger the whole system of commodity loans and the ever-normal granary."

Even by sending great gifts of food to starving millions abroad, cutting crop acreage and keeping full employment, he said, it would seem nearly impossible to "maintain farm purchasing power in terms of commodities much above 85 per cent of parity."

"My greatest fear," he said, "is that farmers themselves may destroy the farm legislative machinery by asking it to do work for which it was never designed" and turn the ever-normal granary into an "abnormal" one.

Urges Fight Against Hunger

Sudden withdrawal of all support prices when unemployment is growing might cause a "downward spiral," he added.

Diplomats Claim Major Victory in Getting Reds To Discuss Far East Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic officials today said the United States has cleared the way for the Geneva conference on Far Eastern problems by satisfactorily answering South Korea's charge of appeasement.

Actually, the officials said, the Allies scored a major diplomatic victory at the Berlin Big Four meeting in getting the Communists to talk Far Eastern peace.

South Korean Ambassador You Chang Frang filed a sharp protest with the State Department Friday, claiming the Geneva conference gave Russia "a diplomatic victory." Chinese Nationalist President Chiang Kai-Shek charged it amounted to a sell-out to the Reds.

Vote to Approve Decision

State Department officials said the South Korean envoy feared the possibility the United States might quit working for a united Korea and that the April 26 conference would grant Red China recognition.

Despite his objections, Yang voted with representatives of 16 other United Nations with troops in Korea to approve the Berlin decision. The conference, meeting here Friday night, decided to abandon the fruitless efforts at Panmunjom to set up a peace parley.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles helped quiet Yang's fears in a brief statement after he stepped off the plane from Berlin Friday night. He said the terms of the Geneva meeting are "100 per cent what we have wanted."

No Recognition of China

"The place and the composition of the conference are precisely what we have always sought,"

While the fiery Pyun was attacking the agreement as a "great retreat" by the United States, France and Britain, a government-supported newspaper accused U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles of an "audacious" deception of President Syngman Rhee.

"The deception of Dulles is as audacious as it is unbelievable," the "Republic" said.

The newspaper said Dulles sent a confidential note to Rhee "this week" with excerpts from the record of the Berlin meeting "as evidence that he and his associates were not unmindful of the essential interests of the Republic of Korea."

Would Get No Help

Dulles, the newspaper said, stated on Jan. 27 it was "useless" to talk about an Asian conference while Russia and Red China were stalling the opening of the Panmunjom conference.

"A little more than two weeks later he has agreed to an exactly opposite course!" the newspaper said.

Pyun said South Korea had not decided to attend the April 26 meeting at Geneva because the situation was "messed up."

"We must wait until the confusion is all cleared up before we decide our course," Pyun said at a press conference.

Both Rhee and Pyun often have threatened to "march north" and unify Korea, adding that they expected support from the Allies. Each was told they would get no help in an unwarranted attack on North Korea.

Seek Showdown On 10 Charges Against Warren

Nixon Labels Accusations As Completely Fantastic

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strident Senate Judiciary Subcommittee headed for a showdown today with Chairman William Langer over 10 unsubstantiated charges he aired against Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) branded the charges "tommyrot" and said he would demand a vote at a secret session approving President Eisenhower's nomination of Mr. Warren to the nation's highest judicial post.

It was by no means certain, however, that a vote would come today. Mr. Warren, former California governor, has served as chief justice since last October under a recess appointment. His nomination has been before the subcommittee for a month.

Langer, an unpredictable and fiery North Dakota Republican who often votes with the Democrats, was a central figure in the outburst over Mr. Warren's nomination.

Nixon Calls Charges False

He touched off a bitter fight late Friday by directing a subcommittee aide to read into the public record the 10 "unevaluated" charges made by critics of Mr. Warren. If the charges were "true," Langer said, they would have a bearing on Mr. Warren's fitness to be chief justice.

The accusations, ranging from a charge that Mr. Warren was dominated by liquor lobbyist Arthur H. Samish to one that he "followed the Marxist revolutionary line," brought Californians from both parties out swinging in the chief justice's defense.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon issued a statement calling the charges so "completely fantastic and patently false" that the subcommittee should investigate the persons who made them rather than "wasting time" looking into the accusations.

Langer Stands His Ground

Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland, whom Mr. Warren appointed to the Senate, said the public airing of the charges was the "most shocking event I have observed in my eight years in the Senate." He called it a "great personal injustice" to Mr. Warren.

Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) said if "the charges are as vicious as I've heard they were, the people who made them should be checked." Rep. Samuel W. Yorty (D-Calif.) deplored the attack on "my friend" but said he was "surprised the Republicans would get so upset over smear tactics."

But Langer, who heads the full Judiciary Subcommittee as well as the nominations subcommittee, stood his ground. He said the procedure used in the case was "identical to others in the past and said 'I'm not going to be used in white washing anybody.'"

"They can sure sue those charges are going to be investigated as long as I am chairman of the committee," he told a reporter.

How Ferguson gains weight for big jobs

Ferguson System implements actually become part of the Ferguson Tractor... through a simple, 3-point linkage, and unique, built-in hydraulic controls. As a result, resistance of the soil against ground-engaging tools is put to work for you, adding weight to the tractor, as needed, to produce more traction.

When soil resistance increases in heavier soils, the tractor automatically gains hundreds of pounds of extra traction weight through the Ferguson System. As resistance decreases, traction weight is lessened.

Right there's where Ferguson is different! Different even from other 3-point hookups and hydraulic systems. It's how the compact Ferguson "30" can pull three bottoms with ease in most soils... probably yours!

But when the going is easy, as it is on most farm jobs, the Ferguson System doesn't waste fuel on excess built-in weight.

If it's hard for you to see how the low-cost Ferguson has the power and weight for your big jobs, we can understand why. All we ask is that you let us come to your farm to give you a generous sample of the Ferguson "30" doing your big jobs. Phone today and let's set a date—soon!

Control Poultry Parasites, Boost Profits

You can increase poultry profits by a five-step control of chicken lice and mites.

These insects cause a decrease in egg production and impair flock health, says Stephen Moore, extension entomologist of the University of Illinois and the State Natural History Survey.

Moore lists these steps for control:

1. Detect infestations early. Inspect a few birds for parasites each time you gather eggs. Droopy, ragged, discolored birds, declines in egg production or poor egg hatchability is a danger sign that lice and mites may be present.

2. Screen all chicken house openings to prevent wild birds, carriers of lice and mites, from entering.

3. Isolate and observe incoming poultry. Treat infected birds before placing them in the flock.

4. Maintain adequate sanitation by a complete clean-up once a year. Reduce the habitat for lice and mites by removing all unnecessary equipment from the laying house. This will also facilitate chemical control.

5. Use metal nests, feed hoppers and waterers. Metal fixtures provide fewer places for insects to breed, and spray materials can penetrate the cracks.

Moore says you can eliminate lice and mites by making one application of a mixture of 1.2 pint of 20 percent lindane and 6 1/2 pints of DDT mixed with water to make five gallons. Apply this spray throughout the house. A lindane mix may be used separately for lice, and DDT for red mites.

You can clean out northern fowl mite with a nicotine sulfate solution. Mix 2 quarts of nicotine sulfate with 4 1/2 gallons of water, and spray it throughout the house.

Plant Early Oats For Pasture

Spring oats, properly planted, can furnish early pastures, and with a minimum amount of labor, says University of Illinois crop extension specialist W. O. Scott.

You can "mud in" or broadcast the oats and do away with a lot of seedbed preparation. Scott points out that, even if the oats follow corn, you won't need to plow under or disk up the stalks.

Use a variety that is adapted to your area and plant early, he advises.

Oats broadcast on wet land will germinate and grow without being covered if the soil stays wet. If it should dry off, the oats can be disked in.

On some fairly wet lands, Scott says, oats can be drilled without any previous seedbed preparation. Use seeding rates of two bushels an acre for drilling and two and one-half to three bushels for broadcasting pasture oats.

Clip Baby Pigs' Needle Teeth Early

Clip or file those tiny sharp needle teeth before your young pigs injure themselves while fighting or before they bite the sow's udder.

Veterinarians at the University of Illinois say that germs in barnyard manure attack scratched pigs causing a disease known as bull nose. Infected pigs have sore mouths and swollen noses.

The safest way to prevent bull nose is to clip or file baby pig teeth. If you clip them yourself, be sure to follow these suggestions:

1. Use sharp wire cutters. Be sure to wash and sterilize them thoroughly beforehand.

2. Don't injure the gum or skin when you clip the teeth. If you clip too closely, you may break off the roots of the teeth, opening the way for infection.

3. Apply iodine as a disinfectant after clipping the teeth, and also apply it to all injuries.

Grow better vegetables in your garden this spring by choosing the best variety for your soil and climate.

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer

We had an interesting letter from Joe Sutton the other day. Joe is in the poultry and hatchery business at Salem Road, Mt. Vernon, and seems to have read some of our ramblings in this column. You'll remember we mentioned his talk on the poultry industry in England at a meeting of the Illinois Poultry Improvement association at Southern Illinois university some time ago. A good talk it was, too.

Sutton's letter had quite a bit to say about moisture control in the chicken house and I must share it with some of the fellows in the agriculture department. What I wanted to mention here, though, is Joe's experience with the simple idea of stirring litter in the poultry house as an aid in whipping the wet litter problem. We mentioned litter stirring in this column recently. So here comes Joe with an experience in actual application. I'll just quote the paragraph:

"We have 2,500 pullets not yet in production; in fact, they are 10 weeks old. This time we started them on just plain feed and water without medication of any kind for coccidiosis, but we stirred the litter twice daily after the chicks were two weeks old. So far we've had no signs of coccidiosis."

"They are in a 100-by-30-foot house. It took only 45 minutes a day to stir the litter and keep it loose. We figure that this labor, rated at $1.00 an hour, is cheaper than medication plus the chick loss and the setback the chickens suffer."

Thanks for sharing that experience with us, Joe.

This thing has gone too far to get off the chicken subject now, so we'll just pass on a couple more hints.

If you are going to supply hatcheries with eggs, get your breeding flock mated at least 10 days before beginning to save hatching eggs. Use careful storage practices, too. The most practical farm temperature at which to store them is somewhere around 50 degrees F.

Laying hens need plenty of water in winter as well as in summer. That means a little preparation to keep the water from freezing. Some kind of heat—perhaps an electric light bulb—under the water supply may do the trick. Heating chicken houses isn't recommended for southern Illinois. Whatever the procedure, just see that the hens get good water.

The more eggs your flock lays and the more feed they consume the more water they need. Joe (we're back to Sutton's letter again) says that a flock of hens will drink two pounds of water for every pound of feed they consume.

It naturally follows that the more water the hens drink the more trouble you will have with wet litter. Then you need to do something about ventilation and moisture control without chilling the hens and giving them the sniffles.

How'd we ever get into this so deep? We must stop. For other answers go talk to your hatcheryman or to your neighbor who is experienced in poultry production, or write about your problems to the poultry specialist in the SIU Agriculture department.

Better Breeding Beats Culling for Poultry Profits

Improved breeding is a better approach to a profitable poultry laying flock than is culling out, eventually, the unsatisfactory hens, says Scott Hinners, Southern Illinois university poultry specialist.

With chick hatching time at hand for persons starting laying flocks, Hinners suggests:

1. Get your baby chicks at a hatchery that obtains hatching eggs from profitable laying flocks. Such flocks generally have stock featuring high production, good egg quality, high liveability, and a fast growth rate.

2. Obtain chicks where a good pullorum testing program is in progress.

3. Have adequate brooding space and equipment.

4. Practice good sanitation before and after chicks arrive. Hinners recommends the following minimum equipment for starting 250 chicks: a 10-by-12-foot brooder house, preferably portable; a good brooder stove that will maintain a starting temperature of 90 to 95 degrees under the edge of the hover; adequate fuel or electricity; six to eight 30-inch feeders; six one-gallon drinking fountains; a thermometer; a good litter; a chick guard to keep chicks near the hover.

Home Grown Lumber Saves Building Costs

You can save from one-third to one-half of your farm building costs by using home-grown lumber. W. F. Bulkley, extension forester at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that lumber cut from your own farm woodland is especially good for such rough construction as framing for barns, machine sheds, poultry houses, cribs and bins.

You can use native woods indoors for flooring, baseboards and trim, window and door casings and paneling, Bulkley points out.

One problem involves planing the lumber for interior use. Another involves kiln drying to prevent checking, cracking and warping that are so common when wood seasons too fast. There are planing mills and dry kilns in Illinois that will do custom work.

There are about 82,000 farms in Illinois at the present time with woodlands that are an excellent source of native wood materials. Many farmers hesitate to use this available material because they have not had experience in handling it, the specialist says.

For more information on use of home-grown lumber, ask your county farm adviser for a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1756, "Selection of Lumber for Farm and Home Buildings," and Circular 612, "Season Your Lumber." Or you can write directly for them to the College of Agriculture, Urbana.

Young Forest Trees Need Care

You can't expect to develop a healthy, vigorous-quality stand of trees that will put on the growth you want them to without taking care of them.

L. B. Culver, extension forester at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that the first thing to do after you put out forest seedlings is to protect them from fire and livestock.

Keep livestock out of the planting with a tight fence, Culver suggests. Stock will eat or break off the young seedlings or will kill the roots by tramping the soil.

Never start a fire in the area, and try to keep all fires away. Be careful of smoking materials. If a fire hazard exists in an adjacent area, protect your woodland with a plowed strip.

You should watch your planting closely for the first few years and replant where the trees do not survive. From 15 to 20 years later, as the trees grow and spread out, it may be necessary to thin them to reduce competition and to keep the growth rate where you want it. Pruning is important, too, especially in pines, where the branches die.

If you transplant peonies with the buds any deeper than two inches, they may never bloom.

Is Your Hay Deficient in Vitamin A?

Last summer's drought may affect this year's calf crop, veterinarians at the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine warn.

In some areas the dry weather cut down on the vitamin A content of the hay that is now being fed to cattle. If your cows don't get enough of this vitamin, they may lose their appetites, be unable to see in dim light or be unable to meet the needs of pregnancy, calving and milk production.

Such cattle are generally weak, thin and unthrifty. Their calves are often weak or blind, and they may die.

Feed your cattle an adequate, well-balanced ration at all times, including plenty of good legume hay to give them vitamin A. Also include some protein, mineral supplement and an easily digested feed, such as corn. Feed a mineral mixture free choice. If your hay was damaged by the drought, you may have to give the cattle additional vitamin A and calcium.

Save that extra colostrum (the first milk after calving). It is rich in vitamin A, proteins and choline and will help your young calves build up resistance to disease. Keep it in your deep freezer if you have one. Mix it with whole milk and feed it to calves under eight weeks of age.

You can now depreciate the cost of new grain storage buildings in five years, according to a change in farm income tax law.

Blizzard Follows Dust Storm in Kansas and Texas
By United Press
A wintry dust storm—the worst in almost 15 years—lost strength in the Southwest today, but a blizzard punch followed in its wake.

Both were products of the same cold front that moved across the nation's midsection. The disturbance also stirred up tornadoes that ripped through two Southwest communities.

Winds slackened and visibility cleared in the dust storm area that covered 80,000 square miles in six states at its height Friday.

However, swirling dust still choked residents in many communities. Visibility was only a half mile at Childress, Tex., and wind gusts hit 45 miles an hour at Tyler, Tex.

The blizzard followed so fast upon the dust storm in Kansas and Texas that cutting snow was mixed with whirling dust late Friday.

The combination was whipped by winds that reached 75 and 85-mile-an-hour velocities—hurricane force.

The blizzard was expected to move into Nebraska early today, dumping from four to six inches of snow.

By-products of the deep low pressure system were tornadoes that struck at Conroe, Tex., and Sulphur Springs, Ark., late Friday.

Expect Award of Contracts Monday For Equality Gym

Contracts for the construction of the new Equality high school gymnasium are expected to be awarded officially Monday night and documents signed by the parties involved.

The new gymnasium will be located approximately on the site of the old structure which was destroyed last June 13 by a violent windstorm.

Plans call for a partially submerged type of structure, similar somewhat to the Ridgway gymnasium. The Equality building, however, will have a stage at the East end, and on either side of the stage the school, will be constructed to be located a dressing room and a shower room.

Measurements for the playing section itself are 82 ft. x 109 ft. The stage will be 30 ft. x 24 ft. The playing floor will run East and West. The gym will seat approximately 750 when completed.

In addition to the gymnasium a shop department, long needed by ball season next Fall.

The beautiful new 1954 Cadillac is now in our showroom—and this is an automobile that every American motorist should see . . . and inspect . . . and drive!

They should do this, first of all, because it will give them a better understanding of the things by which to judge the world's motor cars. And they should do this, too, because it will give them a revealing glimpse into the future of automotive design.

For it can be said, with the full support of historic precedent, that much of today's Cadillac will find its way into the cars of tomorrow.

Cadillac's sweeping new lines, its new proportions of glass and steel, and its many superlative new details of design will unquestionably have a profound influence on automotive stylists the world over.

The new roominess of Cadillac's interiors, the new beauty of its appointments, and the new richness of its fabrics and leathers will give the industry completely new standards of comfort and luxury.

And Cadillac's great new power and responsiveness, its wonderful new handling ease and its incredible smoothness of operation are certain to serve as engineering guideposts for years to come.

But imitation is one thing—duplication another. And no amount of imitation could ever produce Cadillac's happy combination of brilliant styling, extraordinary luxury and magnificent performance.

Nor could it bring to another motor car Cadillac's unprecedented acceptance among the world's motorists . . . the feeling of pride that comes to the man who sits behind its wheel . . . or its reputation as the Standard of the World.

These are Cadillac "exclusives"—hard won through decades of motor car leadership, and through undeviating adherence to the highest ideals of automotive production.

We repeat—you ought to come in and see the new 1954 Cadillac. For it is Cadillac's annual report to the nation on the progress of American motor car design—and the news has never been so exciting! You'll be most welcome at any time.

About Town And Country

stitution which at any time exists, till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all. The very idea of the power and the right of the people to establish government presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established government."

About impartiality?
"To please everybody is impossible; were I to undertake it, I should probably please nobody. If I know myself, I have no partialities. I have from the beginning, and I hope I shall to the end, pursue to the utmost of my judgment and abilities, one steady line of conduct for the good of the great whole. This will, under all circumstances, administer consolation to myself, however short I may fall in the expectation of others."

About patriotism?
Commenting on the words of Jesus, "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's," Washington declared that he was no advocate of that type of patriotism for one's country which ignored rendering unto God that which belongs to Him.

About Divine Guidance?
In his letter to Joseph Reed in January, 1776, he wrote:
"I have scarcely emerged from one difficulty before I have plunged into another. How it will end, God in His great goodness will direct. I am thankful for His protection to this time."

Cave-In All But Swallows 4 Buildings Of Canadian Plant

WINDSOR, Ont. (U)—Four buildings of a six million dollar chemical plant settled slowly today in a sea of mud where an abandoned salt mine caved in 1,000 feet below the surface.

The cave-in had all but swallowed up the four chemical buildings and was threatening to bring a huge hydrogen tank crashing to the ground.

Muddy waters that gushed up from the core of the old mine delayed efforts to secure the globular tank and authorities were considering ways to drain it.

The cave-in occurred Friday at the chlorine manufacturing section of the Canadian Industries Ltd. plant which lies less than a mile from the 45 million dollar Ontario hydro-electric power plant. Also affected was the neighboring Canadian Salt Co.

Rescue Heir to Cuban Rum Fortune, One Kidnaper Slain

SANTIAGO, Cuba (U)—Cuban police today put a protective guard over the kidnaper captured as he walked down the highway with Facundo Bacardi, the 8-year old heir to the Bacardi rum millions.

The other abductor and alleged mastermind of the plot to collect $50,000 ransom was shot to death when he tried to escape police after it was learned the child had been rescued.

Police identified the kidnappers of the boy as Evaristo Rodriguez, the Bacardi family chauffeur who was slain, and Manuel Echevarria.

Echevarria was under guard to protect him from a gathering crowd that threatened to lynch him.

Seven Aged Rest Home Inmates Burn to Death

WATERVLIET, Mich. (U)—Seven aged rest home inmates were burned to death late Friday night when fire raced through the rambling frame structure.

Six of the dead were trapped inside the flaming house. The other died while being rushed to Watervliet Hospital.

The home's operators, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schimer, rescued the other three inmates. However, the three were badly burned and were hospitalized.

THANK YOU HARRISBURG!

We like the City, the fine people and the water is OK.

Pana Upsets Litchfield; Grayville Beats Carmi, 76-62 To End Perfect Season

SPRINGFIELD — Pana upset Litchfield and Rockford East tied its second win over Rockford West Friday night in a 26-0 record. Grayville launches tournament action in the Mount Carmel regional week after next.

Grayville completed its first perfect season in history, rapping Carmi 75-62 to round out a 26-0 record. Grayville launches tournament action in the Mount Carmel regional week after next.

La Grange, rated top team in Illinois season-long easily disposed of Downers Grove 77-49 for win No. 14 in 19 games. The Lions finish their season next Friday against York.

Pinckneyville, No. 2 team in Illinois, clobbered Du Quoin 81-52. Centralia whipped Benton 71-51 and Wood River edged Belleville 53-47 in other southern area games.

Scorps of small school quintets completed their regular season with Friday night games. They will open play in district tournaments next week, the first round of competition leading to the state crown.

Guard P. D. Lees was the hero as Pana surprised Litchfield with a 74-66 defeat, Litchfield's fourth loss in 25 contests. Lees sparked Pana with 11 field goals and a total of 27 points.

Rockford East rolled up its 16th victory in 18 games, topping Rockford West 74-56 on the loser's floor. The E-Rabs had squeaked out a 51-50 win over West Jan. 15.

Rockford East ranked fifth and West 15th in the latest list of the top 15 teams in downstate Illinois, as ranked by the United Press Board of Coaches.

Cicero Morton chalked up its 15th straight triumph after having lost two of its first three games of the season, bowling over Niles 59-47. Morton ranks 10th among the top 15 teams. Moline, loser of four of its last six games after a fine season start, managed to outlast Monmouth, 58-52. After ranking second early in the season, Moline has dropped to 11th in the U. P. ratings.

A rugged Princeton team pocketed its 22nd straight victory, trouncing the Ottawa Pirates 71-51. Princeton, rated No. 13 team, lost only in the season opener to Peru St. Bede.

Paris neared the end of a successful season with a 61-52 defeat of Vandalia. Under Coach Ernie Eveland's guidance the Tigers have won 23 out of 26 games this campaign.

Tenley Albright Loses Skating Title After Fall

OSLO, Norway — Disappointed Tenley Albright of Boston offered "no alibi" today for losing the women's world figure skating championship to Gundi Busch of Germany. But onlookers agreed that a fall during her performance probably cost her the title.

Visibly upset after she slipped to the ice and fell immediately following a double loop jump, the blonde, 18-year-old Miss Albright never seemed able to regain her usual stride afterward.

Ahead by 21.8 points after the completion of the compulsory figures Thursday and apparently well on her way toward repeating the triumph she scored in Davos, Switzerland, last winter, Miss Albright's performance in Friday's free skating windup definitely did not measure up to the German girl's.

The defeat suffered by Miss Albright left the U. S. with only a single title—the men's championship won by Hayes Alan Jenkins of Akron, Ohio.

Rocky Castellani Wins Easy Decision From Durando

NEW YORK — Manager Alvin Naiman was so pleased with Rocky Castellani's lopsided "rubber-match" victory over slugger Ernie Durando that he announced today, "We'll top any offer for a title fight."

Castellani of Cleveland, No. 1 middleweight contender, won his second unanimous decision over Durando at Madison Square Garden Friday night with such ease that none of the three ring officials gave the Bayonne, N. J., blaster more than two rounds.

In their second fight, two years ago, Durando floored Rocky twice and stopped him in the seventh round. But Friday night Durando couldn't hurt the brilliant hit-and-runner, who surprised the 5,865 fans at times by actually out-fighting as well as out-boxing Ernie.

Castellani, sealing 160 3-4 pounds to Durando's 160 for the nationally televised and broadcast 10-rounder, registered his ninth consecutive victory and his 54th in 61 fights.

Manager Naiman, wealthy Cleveland wrecking and construction tycoon, declared, "because of his highest rating, Rocky deserves a title shot at the winner of the Bobo Olson and Kid Gavilan fight. And if money means anything, we'll top any offer for Rocky to get the title shot in Cleveland next summer." Olson is now champion.

Galatia Defeats Brookport, 69-57, To Win Greater Egyptian Title

Galatia's Bearcats romped to a 69-57 decision over the Brookport Bull Dogs last night in the Saline county school's gymnasium and thereby won the Greater Egyptian conference title.

It was the first time in four years that a school had won both the conference tournament and the league race. Galatia, runner-up for the title the past two years, finally made the grade for Coach Bob Farris last night. A year ago the Bearcats were nosed out by Shawneetown and two years ago ran second best to Carrier Mills.

Galatia's victory over Brookport came with greater ease than was anticipated by the near-capacity crowd which gathered early at the goaly. Brookport opened fast with every indication of making a tough affair of the fray. They led most of the first period, the Bearcats coming from a 15-11 deficit in the late minutes to establish an 18-16 quarter margin.

The second period was a complete reversal for the invaders, and they went seven long minutes without scoring from either the field or the foul stripe. During that time, Galatia was piling up the

McLeansboro Trips Eldorado Eagles, 54-44

McLeansboro, paced by the sharp shooting of Millenbine, scored a 54-44 victory over Eldorado last night. The game was played at McLeansboro and gave the two teams an even split in the season's two-game series. Eldorado won on its home floor, 53-51, Jan. 8.

Millenbine, McLeansboro's high scoring guard, hit for 10 field goals and nine free tosses to total 29 markers to pace his team to the win. Eldorado's top scorer was Banks with 17.

The game was played on even terms except for the third period, when Eldorado was outscored 20-9. At half time the score was knotted 22-22, but in the third frame McLeansboro pushed its total to 42 and Eldorado could score but nine points and trailed 42-31 as the final quarter got underway.

Eldorado won the preliminary game, 58-54. Tuesday night Eldorado will be host to Carrier Mills in what will be the last home game for the Eagles and the next to last game of the season for both Eldorado and Carrier Mills.

Galatia's two top point producers, Bob Orto and Joe Upchurch, were both charged with four personal fouls before the first half was completed. Neither saw action throughout the third period, and neither played long in the fourth before drawing a fifth personal. In all, the two stars played only half the game.

Close Season Tonight
But Galatia's victory last night was a complete team affair with speedy Jack Fowler and tricky Sammy Duane leading the Bearcats point-wise. Brookport's loss was top scorer for the evening with 27 points.

The teams played on even terms during the third canto with Galatia holding a 57-38 edge. Brookport outscored their host 19-12 in the final period to slice the margin. At one time in the final period, Galatia led 69-46.

Galatia closes its regular season tonight, entertaining Karnak.

RIDGWAY CRAWLS OUT OF CONFERENCE CELLAR
Al Penman's Ridgway quintet crawled out of the Greater Egyptian conference cellar last night by ousting Vienna, 51-41, at Ridgway. It was the third victory in the last five games for Ridgway.

By virtue of their victory and losses by Cave-in-Rock and Rosiclare, Ridgway pulled into a tie with Rosiclare for sixth.

Vienna collected only nine baskets from the field against the Eagles, but they hit 23 points at the charity stripe. Ridgway led at all stops, 12-4, 21-19, and 32-29, pulling away in the final quarter. Pope Co. clinched third place in the GE loop race last night by bouncing Cave-in-Rock, 60-54. The victory left the Pirates with a 8-5 conference record.

Cave rallied in the third period to overtake the Pirates, but Pope Co. came back strong to win going away. Pope led 17-11 and 29-24 at the end of the first two quarters. Cave led 40-38 after the third.

Rollins Leads Wildcats to 69-46 Victory

Carrier Mills Beats Norris City for 19th Win of Season

Scoring 45 points in the last half, Carrier Mills' Wildcats raced to a 69-46 victory over Norris City last night to rack up their 19th win of the season. The 'Cats have tasted defeat but two times. The game last night was played in the spacious Norris City gymnasium.

Norris City, entering the game with a record of five wins in 16 starts, kept close to the Wildcats in the first half, trailing only 24-23 after two quarters of play.

As the third frame got underway Carrier Mills began to "roll with Rollins" and raced to a commanding lead.

Getting excellent support from his team mates, big Oliver Rollins staged a one-man scoring show that shoved Norris City completely out of contention. Rollins hit seven consecutive attempts from the field in the third frame and continued over into the fourth when he hit for two more. Somewhere along the line he also had a free throw attempt which was successful, giving him an unbroken string of 19 points in as many tries and 28 for the night.

Shortly after, Rollins came out of an under-the-basket mixup with a painful but not serious injury and was taken from the game. This was in the fourth quarter and he did not see further action.

Carrier Mills Coach Claude Shelton used eight players during the game, all breaking into the scoring column with Jim Miller taking runnerup scoring honors with 11 markers.

Carrier Mills also took the preliminary game, a long-drawn-out affair. A total of 62 fouls were called, with Carrier Mills getting 34 of them. The score was 55-52 in favor of the Wildkittens.

Carrier Mills plays at Eldorado Tuesday night.

Before coming to Carbondale the boys will appear on KSD-TV Sunday at 9:30 p. m. on the Laclede Gas program.

The choir will be in Harrisburg to present a concert Friday evening, March 26.

Bull Dogs Drop 52-41; Tilt to Herrin Tigers; Charleston Here Tonight

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs got off to a shaky start, played two fine quarters of basketball, then fell back again when they had a chance to catch up with Herrin and lost a South Seven conference tilt to the Tigers, 52 to 41, at Herrin last night.

The locals, behind 18-5 once in the first period, were trailing only 38-34 at the end of the third quarter. But at that point little "Itchy" Jones of Herrin put six points through the hoop while the locals were tallying only two and the game was lost.

The locals, however, really lost the game because they could not cope with the Herrin huskies, Lawrence, Ranchino and Smith, under these boys was superb against the Bull Dogs.

The game was a clean one, with only 11 fouls being called against Harrisburg and eight against Herrin.

Both teams shot 34 per cent for the evening but the Herrin boys got 38 shots at the hoop, making 20, and Harrisburg connected with 16 out of 46.

Charleston Here Tonight
Herrin ran up an 18-9 lead the first quarter but in the second period Harrisburg settled down and made as many points as Herrin.

Then in the third period, when the locals connected for a fine 50 per cent compared with Herrin's 20, the gap was closed to 38-34. In the final frame Herrin pulled away again.

Tonight Charleston, with a record of nine wins and 12 losses, comes to Harrisburg for a non-conference game. The preliminary will be between the Bull Pups and the Eldorado second team, as Charleston is bringing only its varsity squad.

The Bull Pups last night bowed to Herrin by the same margin as did the Bull Dogs, 51-40. The score was tied at 10-10 at the end of the half and 39-29 at the end of the third period.

For Harrisburg, Charles Wright had 11 points, Joe Dorris had 10, Bennie Fulkerson 8, Don McGowan and Everett Evans 5 each and Bryan Jones 1. Freddie McKenzie also saw action.

NICK'S
—TALK OF THE NATION—

THE PARABLE OF THE SHIP

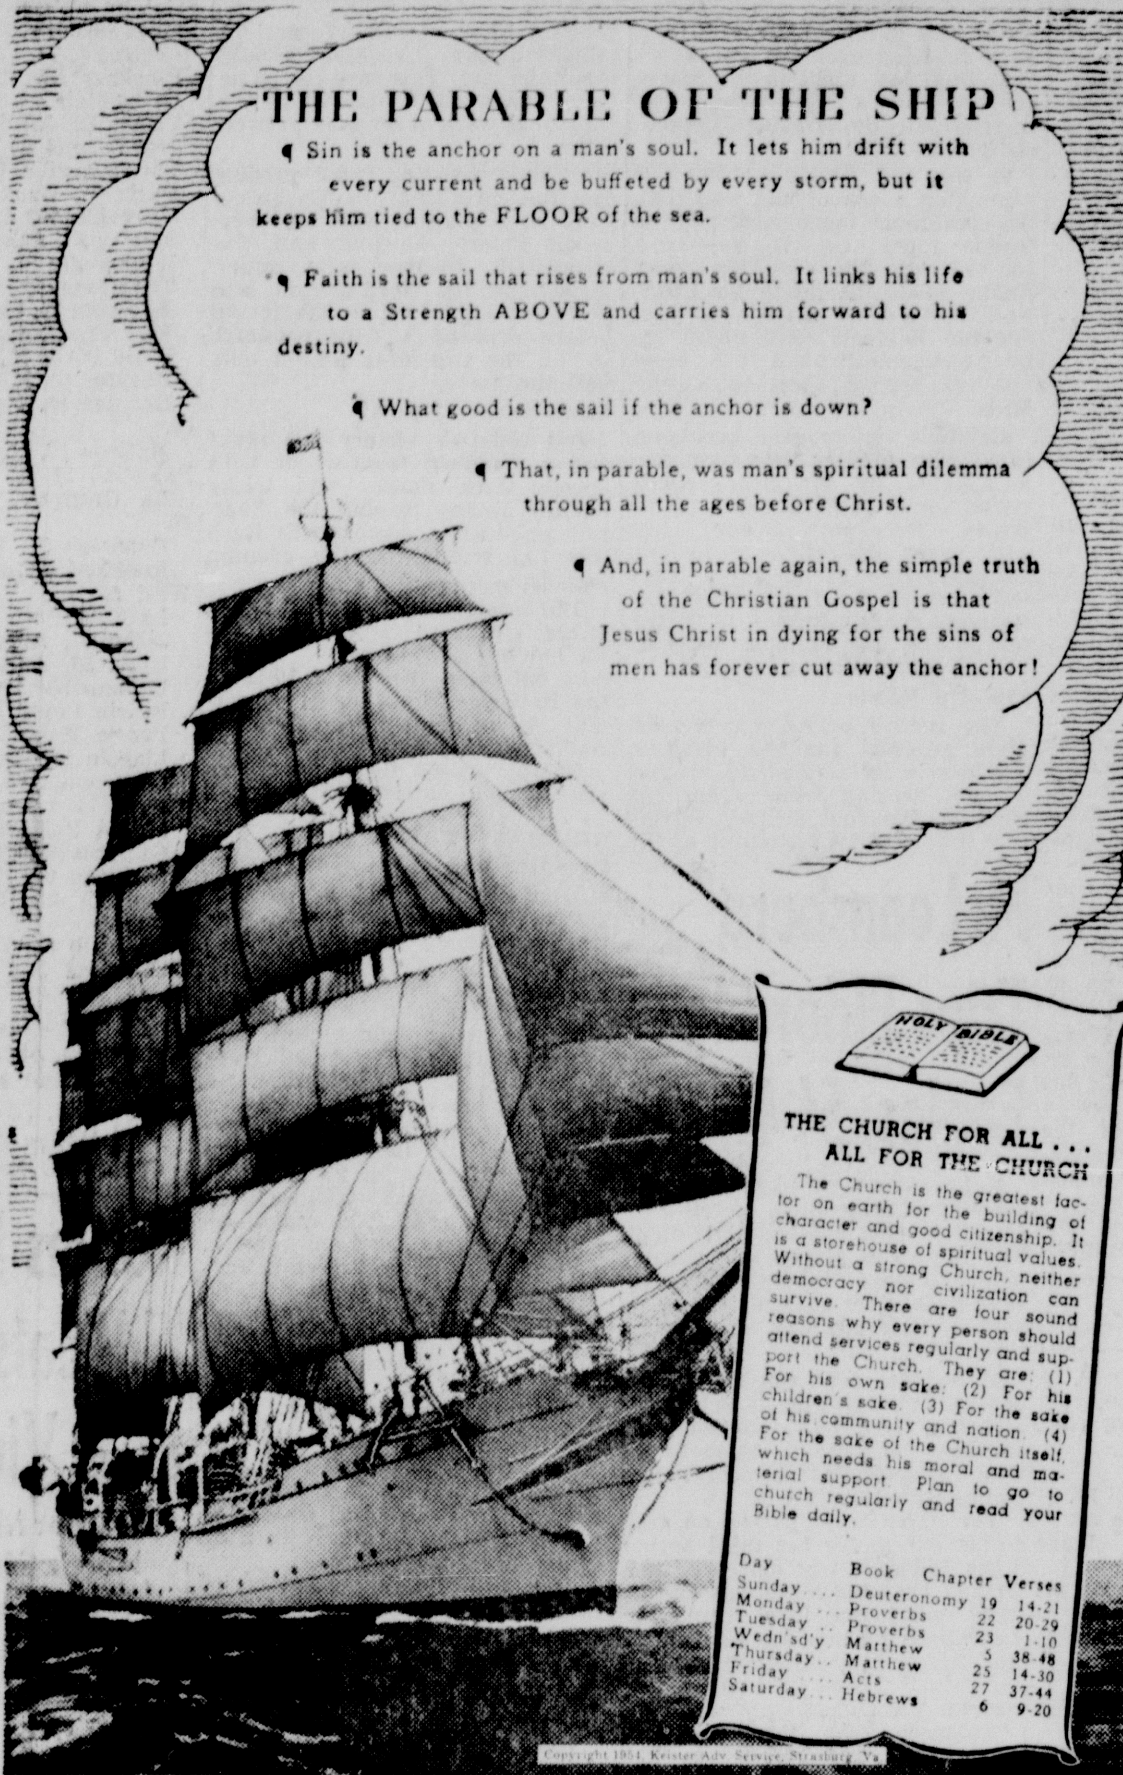

¶ Sin is the anchor on a man's soul. It lets him drift with every current and be buffeted by every storm, but it keeps him tied to the FLOOR of the sea.

¶ Faith is the sail that rises from man's soul. It links his life to a Strength ABOVE and carries him forward to his destiny.

¶ What good is the sail if the anchor is down?

¶ That, in parable, was man's spiritual dilemma through all the ages before Christ.

¶ And, in parable again, the simple truth of the Christian Gospel is that Jesus Christ in dying for the sins of men has forever cut away the anchor!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values.
Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3)
For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Bible study.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

One Thing Worth Knowing

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
The one thing worth knowing for the man born blind, who recovered his sight through the ministry of Jesus (see The Gospel of John, Chapter 9) was that he knew he could see.

The man's neighbors, the doubters, the enemies of Jesus, all were skeptical, or tried to explain the miracle away. Some of the neighbors suggested that there had been a mistake, and the man who could see was not the blind neighbor whom they had known.

But the blind man, now seeing, set them straight about that. He said flatly, "I am he."

The enemies of Jesus went farther. The healing had been upon their own Sabbath, and they seized upon that to denounce the miracle worker.

They called the blind man's parents, and, when they couldn't get any satisfaction in explaining away the facts, they fell back upon denunciation, with a pretense of giving glory to God. "Give God the praise; we know that this man (meaning Jesus) is a sinner."

It was this that brought forth the blind man's testimony: "Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not; one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see."

Actually the man knew very well that Jesus was not a sinner, but he was taking his inquisitors upon their own ground to disprove them.
Let them explain it, if they could.
The appeal to the fact, or facts, is always the most incontrovertible evidence. To know one thing is far more important than not to know a great many things.

The ringing testimony of this former blind man seems to me symbolic of a sound and wholesome religious attitude that would give an anchorage of faith for many who have floundered in difficulty and doubt.

One thing that has impressed me as I have observed doubters and the religiously insecure has been their willingness to make more of their doubts than of any possible certainty they might have.
"One thing I know," if they really knew it, might have been a basis for faith.

I have in mind an eminent man, who lived and died a skeptic,
though he wrote of the religion of other men in a way that seemed to suggest a yearning that never found satisfaction in his own life.

As I observed him and read his books, it seemed to me that he had everything necessary for the foundation of faith, if he had stood upon the simple things that he knew.
